Consent is F.R.I.E.S.

The Borderland is an inclusive place for everyone to express themselves and experiment. Such a place relies on our ability to respect each other's boundaries.

State both your wishes and your boundaries out loud, and think of deep-fried potatoes:

- Freely Given — Consent is given without pressure, force, or manipulation.
- Reversible — Change your mind about anything at any time.
- Informed — Be honest about your intentions.
- Enthusiastic — Sometimes people say “yes” just to be polite.
- Specific — Saying yes to one thing doesn't mean they've said yes to others.

Consent applies anywhere, including: touch (including hugs!), kink (a yes to spanking doesn't mean you can grope), gifts (keep your MOOP), foods (people have very different restrictions), photography (some of us have security clearances).

Get Informed

How do I express my desires without being awkward? What's the difference between serving and accepting, taking and allowing? How can I help take care of people and ensure an inclusive Borderland?

Find articles on consent, times for workshops and trainings, and sign up for consent team shifts at:

<https://consent.theborderland.se/>

Here you'll also find our reporting tool where you can report event and year-round community incidents.

Event Support

The Consent Team is here to check in, support, care, mediate, and ensure accountability. Ask for us through Sanctuary or any Clown Police clown, or directly via Signal, SMS, Whatsapp, or voice:

Inclusion is everyone's responsibility. If you see something that looks non-consensual or someone who looks like they're in distress, it's your job to check in!
